Chapter 1: What You Will Learn

1.1 Introduction to Monetizing Your AI Skills

In this session, you will learn how to turn AI skills into income. The frame is simple: if you had to start an AI business in 2026 from scratch, what would you ignore, what would you build first, and how would you find the first person who cares. You will leave with a path and a 7-day action plan.

The session has 6 parts:

Part 1: Break the Myths

- We will break the beliefs that stop people from starting:
 - AI business is only for technical people.
 - I am too late.
 - I need a big startup idea.
 - I need a team or capital.
 - I need to quit my job.
 - I need to learn everything first.
- You will also see where beginners find work without an audience: partner programs, expert directories, platform marketplaces, and founder communities.

Part 2: Why Now

- AI awareness is high. AI implementation is still low. That gap is the opportunity.
- Most people use AI for writing, brainstorming, or search. Few use it inside business workflows.
- Companies have budget and pain, but many do not know where to start.
- 1 operator can now research, prototype, build, test, and deliver fast.
- The business basics have not changed: find a painful workflow, improve a metric, prove value, and package it.

Part 3: AI Business Paths

- You will see 3 broad routes:
 - Consultant or educator: Sell clarity, strategy, and knowledge.
 - Builder or implementer: Sell the ability to ship.
 - Agency or productized business: Package a repeated outcome and scale it.
- Each route comes with starting points and a simple roadmap.

Part 4: Monetization Routes

- AI audit: Review a workflow and hand over a 30-day plan.
- Implementation service: Build workflows, assistants, agents, and dashboards.
- Digital asset: Sell templates, workflow kits, prompt packs, and checklists.
- Productized service: 1 repeated outcome for 1 niche.
- Micro-SaaS: Turn a repeated workflow into a small tool.
- Agency: Repeatable acquisition and delivery around 1 niche.

Part 5: Operating Playbook and Demos

- The full business sequence, with a live demo paired to each step:
 - Client acquisition
 - Build your AI execution team
 - Marketing engine
 - Sales and GTM
 - Ops and delivery
 - Product building
 - Launch and monetize
 - Growth and retention
 - Scale system
- Think of agents and automations as the way you build that team.

Part 6: 7-Day First Dollar Sprint

- Day 1: Pick 1 niche and 1 workflow.

- Day 2: Find painful proof.
- Day 3: Build a tiny demo.
- Day 4: Create the storefront.
- Day 5: Run outreach.
- Day 6: Run discovery calls.
- Day 7: Ask for the next commitment.

This session will focus on choosing your path and leaving with a 7-day action plan you can start the same week.

1.2 Key Terms Used in the Session

These terms will come up often:

- Knowledge arbitrage: People know AI exists. Few can turn it into business outcomes. That gap is your window.
 - Niche: Function plus industry. For example, sales in real estate or reporting for e-commerce.
 - Painful workflow: A repeated manual task that costs time, money, or accuracy.
 - First proof: 1 small, visible result that shows the workflow can be improved.
 - AI execution team: Your researcher, SDR, analyst, and reporting assistant, built with agents and automations.
 - First pilot: A small paid or trial project with a real client.
 - Business operating system: Acquisition, delivery, product, SOPs, dashboards, and reporting working together.

Chapter 2: Prerequisites

2.1 What You Will Need in This Session

You do not need any tool access for this session. A little thinking done in advance will make it far more useful.

1. Your Niche

What it is: Function plus industry. It gives clarity and makes selling easier.

What to Do Before the Session:

1. List 1 or 2 industries you know from work, study, or family business.
 2. Note the functions you understand there, like sales, hiring, support, or reporting.
 3. Do not finalize anything. We will shape this in Part 3.

2. A Painful Workflow

What it is: A repeated manual task that someone would pay to fix.

What to Do Before the Session:

1. Write down 2 or 3 tasks you have seen go wrong: manual reporting, follow-ups, research, document search, onboarding, or support sorting.
 2. Look at founder groups, communities, Reddit, and LinkedIn comments for repeated complaints.

3. Your LinkedIn Profile

What it is: Your storefront. It is where the first client checks you.

What to Do Before the Session:

1. Open your profile and read your 1-line bio.

2. Ask 1 question: does it say who you help and what problem you solve?

2.2 Basic Knowledge and Familiarity

- No coding skills required: You can start from any of 4 roles: find the problem, design the workflow, build the system, or take it to market.
 - No audience required: Partner programs, marketplaces, and communities are enough to find the first conversation.
 - Basic AI tool use: What you covered in the earlier sessions is enough.
 - No setup required: Company registration, branding, and perfect positioning do not need to block your first client conversation.

Chapter 3: Key Takeaways Before the Session

3.1 What to Expect in the Session

- Myths broken: The common blockers handled with real examples.
- Timing: Why implementation, not awareness, is where the money is right now.
- Your path: 3 broad routes and 6 revenue routes to pick from.
- Live demos: Each playbook step paired with a demo so you can see the business, not just the tool.
- A plan: The 7-Day First Dollar Sprint, ready to start.

3.2 Summary Checklist

- Note 1 or 2 industries you know well.

- List 2 or 3 painful workflows you have seen.
- Open your LinkedIn and read your bio line.
- Think about which route sounds closest to you: advise, build, or package and scale.
- Come ready to pick 1 niche and start the 7-day sprint the same week.
